David Glaab Wins Supervisor's Post By Comfortable Margin

On March 31, 1998 the special supervisor's election was held and Republican candidate David Glaab was elected as the new township supervisor by a vote of 1,108 to 624 for his Democratic opponent Scott Adkins. (Please see page two for the breakdown of the vote by precinct.) Scott, the current township treasurer will continue in that capacity.

David was able to win eight of the nine reporting precincts and the absentee ballots by wide margins and Scott Adkins conceded the election very early in the evening. Scott congratulated David and wished him success and promised to work with David for the benefit of the community. David responded that he was grateful for the remarks and also the way both sides were able to conduct themselves in a civil manner during the election.

Only 1839 – or 22 percent – of the registered voters bothered to vote. This was significantly less than the turnout for the recent recall election and not even half of the 1996 presidential election. The turnout was so poor that only six people voted in the ninth precinct. However, regardless of the numbers, the margin of victory was impressive for David.

level of interested depended on where you lived in the township. He was aware of the April 30th deadline but indicated that he wanted to begin working on the 1999 spraying program while he was involved in the 1998 program.

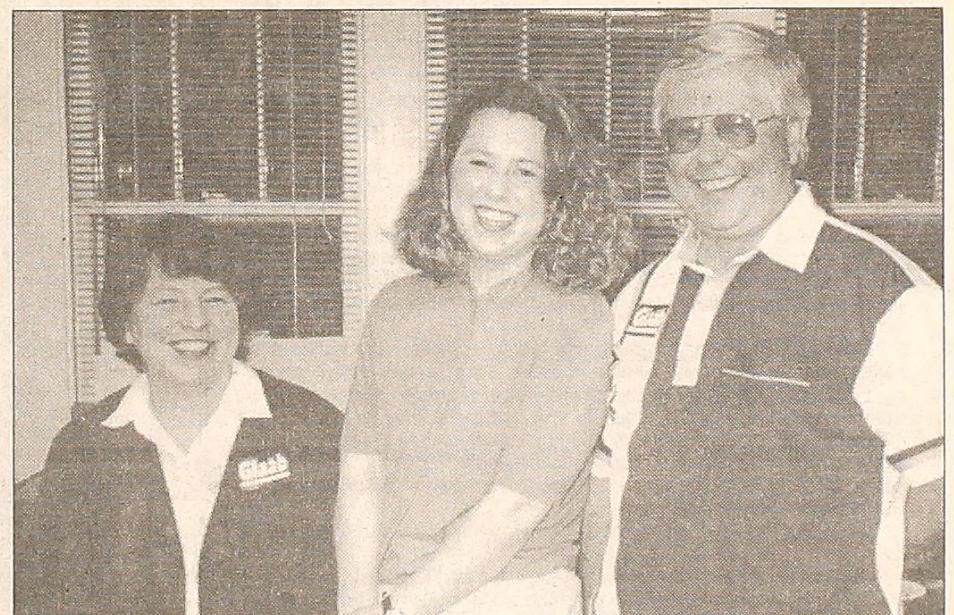

He spoke of his desire to take on all of the challenges of the township in the coming years and that he looked forward to serving the community. David's term will continue until the normal general election in the year 2000.

with David shortly after his conversation with Scott and he responded to several of our questions.

When asked what his first priorities were he indicated balancing the needs of residential development with the needs and concerns of the existing residents. He also expressed a need to be more aggressive with the county to make the land to our north productive again. He suggested that while he wanted to cooperate with the county he also wanted to make sure the county was aware of our positions.

He spoke about the Gypsy Moth Spraying Program and noted the Sobecki family at Glaab victory party.

Winding Creek Is A Controversial Topic At Board Meeting

A lengthy March 25th township board meeting ended on a controversial note when Trustee McKinney questioned the propriety of a recent decision by interim Supervisor John Mitchell.

Trustee McKinney seemed to be challenging the legality of a decision made by Mitchell to rescind a prior unanimous board decision to stop issuing building permits to Winding Creek. He spoke at great length about the board acting on this issue at the March 11th meeting. This was after Trustee Glaab and Supervisor Mitchell reported to the board that the Winding Creek group had admitted the grading was not correct. The essence of the motion was to ban any more permits until the problem was corrected. According to McKinney, the board, at the March 11th meeting seemed to be eager to send a message to developers and builders in this community, yet, 24 hours later the township supervisor lifted the ban after meeting with the Winding Creek representatives.

Trustee McKinney admitted the supervisor had called him about the matter and he told the supervisor that he was opposed to the lifting of the ban. Apparently the supervisor was able to speak on the phone or in person with the other board members and by a vote of 4-3 it was agreed to lift the ban and resume issuing the permits. Mr. McKinney questioned the legality of the decision as it pertained to the Open Meeting's Act as well as the actual act of issuing permits without authority to do so.

Interim Supervisor Mitchell defended his position by stating the decision to ban future permits was not practical because of the weather and the wetness of the ground. He appealed to the common sense of the situation by stating that the disputed land could not be regraded until the weather improved. In the meantime, it was unfair to punish the Winding Creek people - particularly when they agreed to post $10,000 in the Trust and Agency Account.

Clerk Dawnette Bowers confirmed that Winding Creek had placed the $10,000 in the account. She also confirmed they agreed to correct the problem by June 1st or forfeit the money.

Supervisor Mitchell further added that the representatives of Winding Creek had come into his office the next day after the board meeting to discuss the problem and while they were there, several requests for building permits were made by the project. He felt they had made a good faith effort to correct the problem, so he allowed the permits to be issued and then polled the board for their input.

Trustee McKinney was apparently not satisfied with this explanation and continued to discuss at great length the proper procedure to follow. His remarks were so wide ranged that Trustee Glaab felt it was necessary to answer and defend his actions and the actions of the board. Mr. Glaab explained that he had spent a great deal of time on the Winding Creek matter and felt that the Supervisor had acted in an acceptable manner considering the movement by the builders to agree to correct the problem. He acknowledged that it was unfair to ban the permits when the ground was too wet to regrade. Mr. Glaab did acknowledge that the manner in which the ban was lifted may not have been the best way to do it but he supported Mitchell's decision to lift it.

Mr. Glaab concluded his remarks by suggesting to Mr. McKinney that he (McKinney) had great skills as a lawyer "to paint a picture" showing the board as foolish or not competent to do their job.

While the issue appeared to be unsettling to the board members, the board did not overrule the decision of the supervisor or clarify the validity of the previous board decision to ban the permits.

In another matter, discussed earlier in the meeting, citizens Patricia Sarah, Ken Waters and Dawn Daniels spoke to the board about the condition of Bernadine Road. They expressed concern over the condition of the road because of the weather and the heavy commercial traffic. They advised that Bernadine has been torn up by the standing water and the heavy equipment that continued to travel through the area and into the Eagles Estates development.

The Eagle's Estate developers had extended Bernadine Road into the project and the citizens felt that nobody wanted to address the condition of the street. Supervisor Mitchell advised that he had called the county regarding the road and talked about the possible paving of that road. The residents responded that paving of the road was not a major point with them. They wanted the road repaired and maintained and would look favorably to having a gate erected on the street to shut off entry into Eagle Estates.

This gate or some other method of blocking off the street caused considerable amount of discussion among the board members. Mr. McKinney was particularly adamant that a gate, break-away, locked or otherwise should be erected because the planning commission had provided for the gate. He considered that shrubbery could be used as an alternative.

Treasurer Scott Adkins expressed concern with problems the police, fire, mail delivery and school buses could have with the blocked street. He also suggested that the name of the street that is currently on the estate side should be changed to avoid confusion.

Rather than returning the matter back to the planning commission, the board agreed to the break-away gate and to approach the county regarding the repair and upkeep of the road.
